

María Belén Benítez Carranco is an Environmental Engineer, graduated from the Equinocial University of Quito Ecuador (UTE). She also holds two masters, the first is dedicated in Climate Change and environmental negotiation (Andina University), and the second deals with the conservation and valorisation of marine resources (MARRES Master of the Nice Côte d'Azur University).

She has 7 years of experience with various national (ministry in charge of water resources in Ecuador) and international (organization of the Amazonian cooperation treaty –OTCA), and research institutions. After having contributed to project management and scientific communication of the collaborative research project of the International Associated Laboratory “Response of organisms and populations to environmental stress” (LIA-ROPSE), she was in charge of mission with the Scientific Center of Monaco (CSM) on the theme of "blue carbon". Belen supports the scientific communication of the CLIM-ECO2 project.

MARIA BELEN BENITEZ

