

XVth AGeCSO Colloquium

Ecosystems, Knowledge, Innovation and Territories

22-24 June 2022, Nice (Campus St-Jean d'Angely)

XVth colloquium of the Association for Knowledge Management in Society and Organizations (in French: l'Association pour la Gestion des Connaissances dans les Sociétés et les Organisations - AGECSO) will bring together, in six thematic sessions, researchers and practitioners around the theme of knowledge management within and across innovation ecosystems.

Session 6 « Managing knowledge to increase organizational resilience » is at the heart of the European Leadership for Safety Education (ELSE) project theme. This session is organized by :

Loubna Echajari, Université de Technologie de Troyes
Jean-Louis Ermine, Institut Mines-Telecom, Business School
Evelyne Rouby Université Nice Côte d'Azur, GREDEG
Catherine Thomas, Université Nice Côte d'Azur, GREDEG

Session 6 offers the opportunity to explore more specifically the role of knowledge management in building resilience capabilities by investigating several levels of analysis, crossing diverse approaches, and promoting various methodologies. Topics that we look forward to discussing during this session could include, but are not limited to the following:

- Knowledge management systems and management of uncertainty;
- Knowledge management systems and crisis management;
- Learning from rare events such as accidents;
- Learning and mindfulness;
- Training for managing uncertainty;
- Training for crisis management;
- Knowledge management systems and organizational transformation after a shock;
- Knowledge management systems and resilience capabilities of the different types of ecosystems;
- Artificial Intelligence and resilience capabilities;
- New technologies to create and share knowledge to increase resilience capabilities.
